

Junior Product Manager Energy Solutions (w/m/d)

We are Elli – a brand of Volkswagen Group. Elli is developing Energy and Charging Solutions for Business and Retail customers in Europe. We want to support our customers wherever energy meets mobility. Intelligent, easy to use, reliable and 100% environmental. Our Vision is to change the world of energy and make it tangible for our customers – easy and effortless. As part of Volkswagen Group we want to be the first company to offer our clients a seamless and holistic charging and energy experience.

We are looking for Talents who want to share our excitement in exploring new ventures and building a platform for profitable growth. Our Elli Team is growing rapidly, and we are looking forward to your application. Get started and help our highly motivated team to build the future world of energy and charging!

Your Responsibilities will be shaped together with you based on your background and could be:

- You participate in developing and managing innovative energy services and standard energy products along the product life-cycle
- You contribute in developing and defending business innovations based on business plans, market models and KPIs
- You take over the daily operational responsibility for in-life products and standard processes such as retail pricing
- You work on gathering functional requirements for our energy solutions within our cross-functional teams
- You support project management activities related to our energy products and processes

You bring along

- You have a university degree in economics, maths or physics, marketing, energy management, IT or a similar qualification
- You have gained practical experience in product management during an internship or as a working student
- You have a data-driven mindset and ideally have gained first knowledge in areas like stochastic, fundamental models or financial markets
- You are a team player with a strong willingness to take over responsibility and to make P&L-related decisions
- You are a good communicator in being fluent in German and English language

Our offering

Become part of a dynamic team that brings mobility to a new level and pursues to change the energy industry. Experience and performance are highly regarded within our team and rewarded.

Are you interested?

We are looking forward to get to know you. Please send us your application to hr@elli.eco